

David Krch

Tax Partner

David Krch is a founding partner of HAVEL & PARTNERS Tax s.r.o., which he founded under the corporate name TAX ADVISORY SERVICES s.r.o. more than 17 years ago after gaining ample practical experience in the tax department at PricewaterhouseCoopers.

David has long-standing practical experience in comprehensively representing foreign corporations doing business in the Czech Republic. He provides a full range of services to clients in respect of corporate income tax and value added tax (in local as well as international context), including representation of corporations with long-term presence in the Czech market, assistance with one-off projects, and due diligence upon entry of new investors to the Czech market. David has 21 years of experience in the area of taxation of foreign companies with long-term presence in the Czech Republic (out of that four years of practice in the tax department of PricewaterhouseCoopers).

David has also been instrumental in numerous projects involving mergers and acquisitions and their financing in the Czech Republic, in which he participated in collaboration with leading law firms in the Czech Republic on the buyers' as well as the sellers' side. Another important area of his practice includes investment incentives, where he has on a long-term basis represented major investors, mainly in the automotive industry; he actively cooperates in this area with CzechInvest, the Czech Ministry of Finance, and the Czech Ministry of Industry and Trade.

Industry-wise, David primarily focuses on automotive industry, pharmaceutical industry, electronic services and the media. He has for several years represented automotive manufacturers in the Czech Republic (manufacturing plants from foreign countries), local branches of manufacturers representing brands in the Czech market (importers of vehicles), financing (leasing) companies of car manufacturers, dealerships, and several manufacturers of automotive components. During his previous practice at PricewaterhouseCoopers and in his current practice, David also represents major pharmaceutical companies and their Czech branches in all areas of taxation. He also provides day-to-day comprehensive advice to a major TV company, and to a major player in the field of online intermediation of services.

Projects

- comprehensive representation of 3 manufacturers/importers of automobiles and 2 manufacturers/importers of trucks for the Czech market in all areas of taxation
- comprehensive representation of clients during tax inspections concerning corporate income tax and VAT
- securing communication and coordination of tax issues with foreign corporations' headquarters (in particular for transfer pricing, and identified tax risks necessitating corrective measures)
- assistance in setting up new supplier-customer arrangements
- assistance in dispute resolution within existing supplier-customer arrangements, including communication with legal and tax advisers of the counterparty
- communication with the Czech Ministry of Finance and the General Financial Directorate while handling issues that are extraordinarily complex in terms of interpretation; concurrent communication with the Ministry of Industry and Trade in respect of investment incentives
- involvement in the preparation of corporate income tax returns (in particular consistent reviews of outputs and corporate income tax returns)
- involvement in transfer pricing projects, especially updates
- representation of clients in professional chambers in connection with tax issues
- coordination of tax issues with auditors, legal counsels, contractors, and R&D advisers etc.

Membership in professional associations

Czech Chamber of Tax Advisers (KDPČR)
Value Added Tax Section of KDPČR
International Taxation Section of KDPČR

Languages

Czech, English, French, German (passive knowledge)

Education

Prague University of Economics and Business, Faculty of Economics, Prague (2004), Ing. (Master's degree)

E: david.krch@havelpartners.cz

T: +420 255 000 310